THE SPEAKERSHIP.

It is more than likely that Hon. David M. Kelley, of Green Bay, will be the next Speaker of the Assembly. He was the Republican candidate last winter, and was only beaten by a coalition of the Democrats and Greenbackers. He will be one of the most prominent men in the Assembly at the coming session, and possessing in a good degree all the qualifications for a Speaker, and being a gentleman of strong personal influence, a good lawyer, and ready in speech, he will no doubt be supported by a majority of the Republicans in the Legislature. Last winter he was called many times to fill the chair, and performed the duties thereof with so much success that he won many friends, and secured an excellent reputation as a presiding officer. Taking into account the facts that the Assembly is strongly Republican, that Mr. Kelley has eminent qualifications for the position, and that he will be one of the foremost members of that body, the indications point to his election to the Speakership. It will be a wise thing for the Republicans to honor him, as well as themselves, by his election. We understand that Hon. William E. Carter, of Grant county, will contest the Speakership with Mr. Kelley, at least his friends in that part of the State have brought him out as a candidate. He is a prominent man, a good lawyer, and has been in the Assembly two sessions, but we think his qualifications are not so marked as those of Mr. Kelley.

SENATOR HOWE'S INTERVIEW.

The Hon. T. O. Howe, was in Chicago on Tuesday last, on his way to Washington, and allowed himself to be interviewed by a Tribune reporter. The Senator was pretty talkative, and seemed to have been free and frank in discussing the Senatorial question. After making the statement that the result of the recent election far surpassed his expectation, in answer to the question "are you a candidate for re-election?" the Senator said his name has been discussed as that of a candidate, but he had not solicited a re-election, and had not asked any man's support. He had not written a single member of the Legislature, and had never mentioned the subject to one man. The Senator was honest enough to admit that he had serious doubts whether he ought to permit a further discussion of his name, for the reason that he had received much long continued and generous support from the Republicans of the State, and further that he could not afford to endanger either their harmony or success. When the reporter put the question, "could you not withdraw if you chose to do so?" "of course I could," responded the grave and office-worn Senator, but many of my old friends—prominent men in the Republican party—have insisted that it is my duty to leave myself in the hands of the people, and have tendered me their cordial support.

We think the Senator misjudges the motives of a great majority of those who are opposed to his re-election to the Senate. Situated as Mr. Howe is, on the "ragged edge," and doubtless anxious to serve another term of six years in the Senate, and being opposed by a decidedly large number of Republicans, it is probably but natural that he should charge this opposition to the work of disappointed office-seekers. But in this we think the Senator is unkind. When the reporter said to Mr. Howe, "has your service since 1878 been less satisfactory than before?" the answer came, "evidently," and he went on to explain: "Well, a sick man, even if a physician, is not always the best judge of what ails him. But my understanding of the case is, that the loudest complaints against me come from those who have failed of the preferment they sought." He was, however, compelled to acknowledge that there was a more respectable opposition to him than that—not that they like me less, but because they like some other man more, and they think I have been in the Senate long enough." This is the sensible view of the matter, and is undoubtedly the correct view. The Senator repeated for the second time that he could not withdraw his name from the discussion at the present. Then modestly referring to the other made him of the Chief Justiceship of the United States, he remarked: "Nevertheless, my past course, in the presence of more tempting honors should leave no doubt that I should do so if that were necessary to promote the harmony of the party, and the election of a Senator dedicated to the achievement of its best aims."

If there are those in the Republican party who oppose Mr. Howe's election for the fourth term, he should think no evil of them. They have stood by him for nearly eighteen years as a United States Senator, and in a young State like Wisconsin, where there is growing talent and young blood, it is but natural that a very large number of people should think that a continuous term of eighteen years is quite long enough for one man.

Inquiries have been made of Secretary Sherman, whether the statement is true that United States revenue officers have been imprisoned in South Carolina for months for attempting to do their duty, and that the Administration has failed to punish them. The Secretary has written a letter to the editor of the Christian Union explaining the difficulty of enforcing the United States laws in that State and in North Carolina. He describes the operation of the Carolinians in organizing into bands; of making raids on the jails where prisoners were committed for flagrantly violating the revenue laws, and releasing them by force; of the forcible arrest of United States officers without cause; and

GRANT FOR KING.

The Unhappy Bulgarians Want to Crown the American General.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Bulgarian nobility in discussing a candidate for the Throne under the new constitution, consider General Grant the most eligible and the most desirable. No formal offer has yet been made. It is believed that General Grant will not accept.

WASHINGTON.

Special to the Gazette.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The prominent foreign representatives here believe that an Afghan war will result in not only a war with England and Russia, but open a general European conflict and will bring great prosperity to the United States. Secretary Sherman will not remove Hill.

AFGHANISTAN.

Russia will Actively Support the Ameer in Preventing English Occupation.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Times has the following dispatch from Berlin: The St. Petersburg correspondence of the Vienna (semi-official) Political Correspondence says that Russia has announced her intention of actively supporting the Ameer in the event of England occupying any points in Afghanistan from which the Russian dominion in Asia might be effectually threatened. This announcement is based upon the assertion that England has violated the alleged Afghan agreement of Lord Clarendon by the occupation of Quetta. The intention of Russia to interfere in Afghanistan is apparently confirmed by the Moscow Gazette declaring that intervention is indispensable now that the occupation of Quetta has been succeeded by expeditions in the direction of Candahar and Herat.

HOTEL BURNED.

The Fox River Hotel at Waukesha, Destroyed by Fire.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 28.—A Waukesha, Wis., special to the Sentinel says that the Fox River Hotel was destroyed by fire to-night. Loss, $12,000; insurance $8,000. The hotel stables were also destroyed, and the trotting stallion Weasel Jr., and two other valuable horses were burned to death.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Charles Lockwood, in East Madison, Yesterday Morning.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 28.—Charles Lockwood, a young man aged 20 years, was killed in the yard in East Madison this morning, while endeavoring to uncouple an engine from a freight train. His foot slipped on the snow and ice. A freight car passed over him, injuring him so badly that he died in about four hours.

ROBBERY.

An Oconomowoc Clothing Store Robbed of Several Hundred Dollars Worth of Goods.

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Nov. 28.—The clothing store of E. B. Birchard was entered last night by thieves. Several hundred dollars worth of clothing was taken, which consisted of gents' underwear, silk handkerchiefs, and a variety of other goods. The establishment was overhauled from top to bottom. Entrance seems to have been made by prying open the back window. No arrests have been made.

The Superintendent of Public Property, of this State desires us to give notice that the second and revised edition of Volume II. of the Geology of Wisconsin is ready for sale at cost price—$3.50. It is the cheapest and the most valuable book ever published in this country at that price.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF THE LIVER.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, merely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving through cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kidney affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

We sincerely hope there are no readers of the Gazette foolish enough to believe a single one of the above statements, although they look reasonable compared with the advertisements of other clothing stores in the City. They are giving you what is vulgarly termed "TAFFY," to get you into their stores, where you are worked up for an offer,—no sooner made than accepted. Our easiest customers to sell are the ones who have been the rounds and escaped. Because our first price astonishes them, and all we have to do is to fit them out and they are happy.

BRIEFLETS.

No more turkey gobbling.
—Miss Willard lectures to-night.
—Special meeting of the Council to-night.
—Turkeys were not the only bipeds stuffed yesterday.
—Warmed-over victuals will now lighten the work of the housekeepers.
—Prof. Carpenter keeps up his mesmerism fun and science at the Opera house to-night.
—The big bill board at the end of Milwaukee street bridge, has been made up into kindling wood.
—You needn't think you have to begin grumbling again just because the day for giving thanks is past.
—The examination of Mason, the supposed burglar will be continued to-morrow morning before Justice Prichard.
—Those who go to hear Miss Willard to-night, can see a veritable piece of one of the "Seven Wonders of the World."
—A foreign paper says of Miss Willard: "Her chief power is a rich and animated womanhood, which she has the fine instinct not to abdicate."
—C. L. Valentine, Register of Deeds, has received the balance of the Statutes, and town officers who are entitled to copies can get them by calling at his office.
—A number of cases of diphtheria are reported. Thus far they seem to be monopolized by the east side of the river. Last winter they were nearly all on the west side.
—The Captain of the Guards quailed this morning for the first time since he was elected. He took it on toast for breakfast, the bird being a part of yesterday's plunder secured by the H. C's.
—The Court Street Literary Society met Wednesday evening and joined in a discussion of electricity, in which Mrs. Faville, Miss Martha Wiley, Mr. H. S. Hogboom, Mr. Clark Burnham and others participated.
—Jim McLean had bad luck in the hunt yesterday. A fine $50 greyhound, which he had borrowed from Pete Taylor, of Brodhead, for the occasion, wandered off, and is missing. McLean captured twenty rabbits, though.
—In the Circuit Court, to-day the case of Whitford vs. Goodrich was still dragged along. To-morrow all parties concerned will take a rest, it being the Seventh day. In order to hurry along the case the Court will be in session this evening.
—One of Janesville's ladies sent her big brother to a dry-goods store for a pair of undressed kids. The b. b. not being able to find exactly what she wanted, brought home a box containing a pair of little china dolls, just as they appear when turned out of the factory.
—Miss Willard will go from here to Fond du Lac where she will lecture next Monday evening. Tuesday evening she will lecture in Beloit, and afterwards in Rockford. During her stay here she will drive out to the old Willard homestead where she spent much of her girlhood.
—The M. L. C. open their lecture season next Tuesday evening with a lecture from H. M. Simmons, of Kenosha, on the "Origin of the English Language." Mr. Simmons is not unknown to the Janesville public, and this is one of his newest and raciest subjects. He deserves a good hearing.
—W. T. Vankirk has a large stock of groceries and can supply everything needed for the table, the kitchen and the cellar. He proposes to reduce his stock, in view of some proposed business changes, and has placed the prices clear down so that his customers can have the benefit. Read what he has to say about it in another column.
—Prof. Carpenter did not have a large audience at the Opera house last night, but those who were there enjoyed it hugely. His mesmerism powers are wonderful, and the antics which he made his subjects perform kept the audience in a continuous uproar. It is fun alive and mixed with enough scientific explanation to make the entertainment instructive as well as amusing. He has had big houses in Chicago and Milwaukee and elsewhere, and will doubtless draw a crowd to night, now that the folk here have found him out.
—Hauser & Co., of Milwaukee, are just publishing a volume of poems entitled "Poems of the Western Land." The subjects are many of them taken from the old records of Wisconsin, both historical and legendary, and will prove of more than ordinary interest to the residents of this State, and have sufficient literary merit to commend them to the general reader. The volume will be out in time for the holiday trade, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once. Mrs. E. J. Richmond, of Appleton, is the author, a lady who has already won for herself many high praises as a poetess.
—A Doctor in this city was holding a sidewalk talk the other day with a fellow who was a little under the influence of the cup which—sometimes—cheers. The Doctor remarked that a great society were getting so plenty that almost any man could succeed in getting admitted in some one of them, no matter what kind of a character he had or what were his habits. The other man differed in opinion. He knew better. He had found from personal experience that he couldn't get into any of the societies, and with a drunken drawl whined thus: "You see I wanted to join the Temple of Honor. They appointed a committee, looked me over, and concluded that I was such a mighty hard drinker, that they could do nothing with me, and they black-balled me." Well, I tried to join the ———. They appointed a committee, looked me over, and concluded that I couldn't drink more than half enough to be a good member of that society and so they black-balled me," and he leaned up against a lamp post, nearly fainting with despair at the idea of ever being able to get into the mysteries of any secret society.
—"Nineteen Beautiful Years."
A charming and valuable book. Especially adapted for the intellectual and religious training of young ladies. Call and get one at Sutherland's.

THANKFUL THOUGHT.

The Doings of Preachers and People Yesterday.

Sundry Services and Sermons.

The giving of thanks yesterday was accompanied by the usual amount of social and religious doings. Among the church folks several services were conducted in the morning, among them being a union service.

AT COURT STREET CHURCH.

The two Methodist churches, the Congregational, and the Baptist united in this service, the choirs uniting in rendering a very acceptable opening service of song. Rev. T. P. Sawin read the President's proclamation, and the scripture lesson, Rev. H. Sewell offered prayer, and Rev. H. Faville introduced the sermonizer of the occasion, Rev. Mr. Chapin, who gave a discourse full with thought and of juicy freshness. He chose as his text, Psalms, 91-7: "A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked."

In opening he remarked that the causes of thanksgiving were not only absolute but relative, and a broad view should be taken of our condition as a people in comparison with other nations. Some might ask "what have we to be thankful for when we have been subjected to a five years' financial strain; and when pestilence has walked to and fro within our borders?" There were nevertheless many causes why we should be thankful for being blessed above other nations. The chief reason was that embraced in the text—the idea of protection. The great problem which humanity is everywhere trying to solve is how to form a perfect political and social state. These experiments are attended with more or less suffering. God had declared Christ to be King, but the people have cried, "We will have no other king but Caesar," and Christ had gone away and was letting Caesar do what he could. There are centers around which these struggles take place, and we are far away from these centers and stand as mere spectators, while the European nations are near these struggles and engaged in them.

The first cause for thanksgiving as a nation is our age, which is that of young but mature manhood. Our nation bears the same relation to European nations that a man of thirty-five does to a man of sixty-five. We have passed through our youthful stage of foolish speculations and lavish expenditures. We have been borrowing money from foreign capitalists and spending it as a boy spends the paternal estate, but now the balance of trade is in our favor. Europe has seen its day and is now an old man.

Another cause for thankfulness is that our territory is ample and compact. France has almost as many people as we, and yet they are crowded into one-fiftieth the space. It is a blessed thing to have plenty of room in which to grow. Other countries can only grow by establishing colonies. Think what this country would be if all were compelled to live East of the Allegheny mountains. What chance would there be for individual, social, or national development? Here the young man can push West and gain as good a farm as that of his father, and still be within easy reach of home. In Europe there is no West to go to. The crowded condition of other countries gives birth to great cities filled with crime, and gives the people no chance to develop intellectually or morally.

The isolated position of our country is another cause for thankfulness. We scarcely feel the contact with our neighbors, while on each side a mighty ocean serves both as a barrier to invasion and a highway for commerce. European nations are crowded together and as to be always quarrelling over boundaries, and it is a wonder that they do not have more wars. Another cause is in the fact that we have a free and largely uniform religion. Some of the most bitter wars have arisen from religious dissensions. Here all religions are tolerated and none were established. In Europe almost every State has its established religion, and there are four great hostile religions having long seated feud against each other.

Still another cause was the universal and general belief in one form of government. We all agree in the maintaining a republic. There are therefore no revolutions on that account. Even our rebellion was waged rather for a division of territory than a change of the form of government.

We should also be thankful because of our distance from the centers of the great struggles. Jerusalem is the place which God has chosen for his place in which to be praised. It is to be delivered, and is to be the great center of religious thought. Other cities which have been the centers will have to yield. We have no such great center here, and can see this struggle from afar.

In closing, the speaker gave some practical thoughts, as to the responsibility that these blessings bring. Where much is given much is required. We should be just in our relations to other nations, just not only in our opinions of them, but just in our international treatment of them. We also have a duty to perform to those who come to our shores. Shame on the man who scorns a foreigner, for what are we but emigrants who have been over here a little longer than they? We must keep ourselves free from the old world as far as getting entangled in its vices are concerned, but we must receive their representatives in the cordial spirit in which we have invited them to our shores. The many struggles for gaining a perfect form of social and political government, was a fit cause for all to join in praying for the coming of that only perfect condition of society possible—the kingdom of God. A hundred years hence this land will be as crowded as China is now. Where then will there be room for extension? The troubles which now oppress the old world will then be ours. The great need of the world is thus shown to be Christ, and "Thy Kingdom Come" should be the prayer of all.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Rev. J. W. Sanderson preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion, and which has caused very favorable comment among those who heard it. We regret that lack of space prevents the publication of a synopsis of the sermon. The choir prepared special music for the occasion, and the services were interesting and impressive.

AT ALL SOULS CHURCH.
Rev. Jenk L. Jones preached yesterday on "The Larger Family." He showed how the thanksgiving was naturally a family celebration but that the family bounds were so enlarged as to take in the idea of universal brotherhood. Dr. Newman's orchestra furnished some excellent music and the whole occasion was one of rare interest.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH.
The day was observed by High Mass in the morning followed by a sermon by Father Doyle, in which he made some very appropriate remarks concerning the observance of the day and the reasons why all should unite in giving thanks.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.
In the morning High Mass was celebrated, and Father Munch preached a sermon. Among the causes of thank which he called attention to were the bountiful harvests, the preservation of health, and the fact that no war had broken out within our borders.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH.
The rectors of Christ and Trinity Episcopal churches united at the latter church yesterday morning in service. The choir under the leadership of Mrs. St. John was strengthened by D. D. Bennett and some of the Baptist choir, and rendered as fine music as ever heard within those walls. Prof. Tibcomb presided at the organ and the solo work was done by Mrs. St. John, Mrs. Conrad, Miss Dolly Patten, Messrs. Scott, Church and Webster. Rev. T. W. MacLean preached a very practical sermon, in which he urged the people to give as well as to be thankful. He showed how there could be no true gift without there being some sacrifice left on the part of the donor. It was one of Mr. MacLean's best efforts, and the speaker was listened to throughout very attentively and thoughtfully.

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.
The Hunting Club, Its Day's Sport and Its Evening's Feud—A Jovial Crowd and a Jolly Time.

The members of the Hunting Club observed Thanksgiving day in the healthful and joyous recreation of tramping through wood and field and filling their game bags with fowl and flesh, it being their third annual hunt. Sides were chosen with Will P. Bowen as Captain of one, and Ed. P. Doty as Captain of the other. The arrangement was that each side should report at the Spence house, by 9 o'clock, when the score would be completed, the side scoring the least, to set up the supper for the crowd. By 8 o'clock the returns began to come in. Bags full of rabbits were dragged in and dumped into the corners by the youthful Nimrods, while squirrels, ducks and partridges were added to the heaps, making the room look like a market place. The boys gathered about in groups and interchanged the many experiences of the day, while the captains counted up the results. This official canvass showed that Will Bowen's side had scored 279 and Ed. Doty's 213, giving Bowen and his confederates a majority of 66. In this count rabbits counted 1, squirrels 2, and the birds 5. G. L. Hackerman had the highest individual score, it being 61. In his game were twenty-seven squirrels, for shooting which he was to have a decided liking. Duck Sutherland and Will Watson scored heavily, their joint count being 79. Ed. McKey and Tom Smith, of Chicago, carried off the medal on shooting rabbits, they together having 72.

By the time the score had been made out, all hands were ready for supper, and they fell to with wonderful alacrity, and partook most heartily of a bountiful feed provided by the host of the Spence house. After the limit of stomachic possibilities had been reached the boys threw down their knives and forks, and went in for a merry time. Toasts were given and neatly responded to, Ed Doty being the master of ceremonies.

Henry Ehrlicher was the first on the programme, and paid a rare bit of tribute to "Rabbits." Will Bowen, who has for the three years past been a Captain, and a leader in the hunt, was very appropriately called upon to speak of "The Past of Our Club," and did himself proud. Will Holmes, now of Madison, spoke of "The Future of Our Club," and pictured it most brightly. George McKey was called on to respond to the toast "Our New Members." J. W. Bates handled the toast of "Girls." Will Doe paid a tribute to the champion of the evening to which G. L. Hackerman, who had that honor, responded. J. D. King and W. H. Tinsley were called on as representatives of the press. Other speakers were called upon, among them being Levi P. Bliss, Thomas Nowlan who spoke in behalf of the invited guests, and Will Buntiff, who spoke of the Ost-kosh riot. J. W. Bates offered some explanations of the same affair showing clearly that none of the boys shrunk from what they deemed to be their duty. The absent members were not forgotten. Among those most missed were R. M. Palmer, who is now in Albert Lea, Minnesota, and Vic Richardson, now at West Point. Cole McLean spoke very feelingly in regard to this. Palmer was captain in the two previous hunts, which made the tribute thus paid him all the more appropriate.

The generosity of the host and hostess was not forgotten, and in response to the call Mr. Spence put in a few appropriate words.

The feast was a jolly one, and a fit ending for the day. The score was larger than made in any previous year, by great odds, and they were nothing but "straight shooting," as far as heard from, it being strictly agreed that no game should be counted unless actually shot by the person presenting it. The Hunting Club is made up of young men full of life and with warm hearts, and their annual gatherings are among the pleasantest occasions which grace Thanksgiving day.

FRESH READING.
The following are among the recent publications placed upon the shelves of the Y. M. A. library, this week:

"Daisy Thornton," by Mrs. Holmes; "Rory," by Edward Eggleston; "Drift from Two Shores," by Bret Hartie; "Watch and Wait," Henry James, Jr.; "Married of Dave," by William Black; "The Face Illumined," by E. J. Roe; "Oratory and Orators," by Wm. Matthews.

A SURPRISED PASTOR.

A large number of friends of Jenk L. Jones and wife, successfully carried out a happy plot for surprising them last Wednesday night. They met in the parlors of All Souls' church, and proceeded in a body to take possession of the house of their pastor and friend. They came not empty-handed, but laden with bounteous supplies for the cellar and table and beautiful tributes of friendship to gladden the fireside. It was the intention to make it a "pound surprise party," but the kindness felt toward Mr. Jones and family refused to be content with expressing itself by avoidpous weight, and hence parcels and bundles of all descriptions came rolling in. The occasion was a happy one aside from the joy of giving, and the brief season of sociability was such as to cause all the participants to long remember the Thanksgiving eve of 1878. Many more friends would doubtless have gladly joined in the festivities and improved the opportunity of indicating their esteem for the surprised ones, had they been in the secret of what was being planned.

RETURN OF DR. O'LEARY.

The public will be glad to learn that Dr. O'Leary, who was called away from the city by the sudden death of a brother, will return to-morrow and commence his lectures at the Opera house next Wednesday evening, as announced in another column. He will be gladly welcomed back by many who listen to his lectures with eager attention.
